Dairy Farming Is A Tough Business! 2009 was one of the toughest years ever! Coping with the stresses of the past twelve months may have taken a toll on your relationship with other family members. You may be feeling a bit alienated or simply disconnected from each other.

On Thursday, March 11th, PDMP will host a workshop to help individuals enhance their relationship with whatever relative is most important to them in their family farm business. Husband/Wife, Father/Son, Father/Daughter, Mother/Daughter, Mother/ Son, Brother/Brother, Father In Law/Son In Law, Sister/ Brother, are some of the possible combinations who can benefit from this workshop. If your relationship is already good, you can make it even better with skills you will learn here.

The workshop has been specifically designed for farm families and will be facilitated by Dr. Carl T. Clarke, a psychologist with extensive experience in this field. Dr. Clarke spoke at the PDMP Issue Forum in June of 2009 on this same subject. Charlie Gardner, DVM, will be assisting Dr. Clarke.

Pairs who register will learn about:

- Recognizing and affirming the positive qualities in each other
- Providing encouragement and support
- Dealing with conflict in a positive manner
- Having a less stressful relationship
- Deepening and strengthening your respect, support and love for each other.
